GI Tags: Turning Heritage into Wealth

For centuries, traditional crafts have been an essential part of India's cultural and economic fabric. They have provided livelihoods to rural communities, generated employment, created opportunities for women, and helped preserve indigenous skills, knowledge and artistic traditions across generations. Today, as India advances towards more inclusive and sustainable development, the craft sector continues to hold considerable economic and social significance. It brings together livelihood generation, community empowerment, cultural preservation and environmentally responsible production. Supporting and strengthening this sector can expand sustainable employment, particularly in rural and semi-urban regions, while ensuring that India's diverse craft traditions remain relevant, resilient and economically valuable.

The economic potential of traditional craftsmanship becomes even greater when authenticity and regional identity are protected through mechanisms such as Geographical Indication (GI) tags, which can help artisans gain market recognition, access premium markets and secure better returns.

How Do GI Tags Add Value?

A GI tag does more than certify a product's place of origin. It turns the unique identity, traditional knowledge and reputation associated with a region into a market advantage, creating value for both producers and consumers.

- Protects Authenticity: Ensures that products genuinely originating from a particular region and meeting recognised standards are

Understanding Geographical Indication (GI)

A Tag of Origin, Quality and Tradition

What is a GI?

A Geographical Indication (GI) is a special label given to a product that comes from a particular place and has qualities, reputation or traditional methods linked to that place.

Examples of GI Products in India

Banarasi Sarees
(Uttar Pradesh)

Kashmiri Saffron
(Jammu & Kashmir)

Darjeeling Tea
(West Bengal)

Why GI is important?

Protects traditional knowledge and skills

Builds consumer trust

Gives artisans and producers better market recognition

Helps access premium markets

In simple terms:

A GI tag connects a product to its place, people and traditional knowledge. It helps ensure that the economic value created by a region's unique heritage benefits the local community.

Regulation of GI Tags in India

Geographical Indications (GIs) are protected as intellectual property rights in India and internationally. India's GI system is governed by the Geographical Indications of Goods (Registration and Protection) Act, 1999, with registrations administered by the Geographical Indications Registry. The system came into force in September 2003, and GI registrations commenced in 2004.

GIs are also recognised internationally under the WTO's TRIPS Agreement and the Paris Convention, helping protect Indian products in global markets. Major export destinations for Indian GI products include the UK, Italy, UAE, USA and South Korea.

Through the 2025 amendment, the fee for filing GI applications and related processes has been reduced by 80%. The renewal fee for the tag has also been cut from Rs. 3,000 down to just Rs. 500!

As a form of intellectual property, GIs are recognised internationally under the Paris Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property and the World Trade Organization's (WTO) Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPS).

India established a legal framework for protecting products linked to specific regions through the Geographical Indications of Goods (Registration and Protection) Act, 1999 and the accompanying Rules notified in 2002. The framework became operational in 2003, and GI registrations commenced in 2004-05. The Geographical Indications of Goods (Registration and Protection) Rules, 2002, were amended in 2025.

- distinguished from imitations and misuse.
- Builds Consumer Trust: Assures buyers of a product's origin, quality and traditional character.
- Strengthens Market Identity: Gives regional products greater visibility and a distinctive identity in domestic and international markets.
- Improves Producer Returns: Greater recognition and demand can create opportunities for better prices and improved incomes for artisans, farmers and other producers.
- Expands Market Access: GI recognition can help products enter premium, international and export markets by giving buyers greater confidence in their authenticity.
- Preserves Traditional Skills: When traditional crafts and practices generate sustainable incomes, they are more likely to be passed on to younger generations.
- Drives Rural Development: Growing demand for GI products can generate local employment, entrepreneurship and income, particularly in rural and semi-urban areas.
- Supports Cultural Tourism: Craft clusters, weaving centres, tea estates and other GI-producing regions can become destinations for heritage and experiential tourism, creating additional livelihood opportunities.

SUCCESS STORY OF MUZAFFARNAGAR JAGGERY

From Local Specialty to Global Markets

The GI tag has strengthened the identity of Muzaffarnagar Jaggery as a premium product with distinct quality and origin.

Leveraging this recognition, Brijnandan Agro Farmer Producer Company exported 30 metric tons of jaggery to Bangladesh in 2025.

The GI certification enhanced buyer confidence and improved the product's marketability in international markets.

THE IMPACT

545 members benefited

Increased income prospects for members

Greater value for locally produced jaggery

“GI tag transformed a local specialty into a global opportunity.”

GI Tag Registration, Protection and Renewal

A GI can be registered only when it meets the legal requirements under India's GI framework. Applications can be filed by a legal entity representing the interests of the producers, such as a producers' association, organisation or authorised authority. The GI Registry in Chennai has jurisdiction across India.

Certain names cannot be registered, including generic or misleading names and indications that violate legal or public standards.

Once registered, a GI is protected for 10 years and can be renewed thereafter. Registration may be cancelled or revoked if it was obtained through fraud or misrepresentation, falls out of protection in its country of origin, is no longer in use, or its use is likely to mislead consumers or violate the law.

Schemes & Policies Supporting GI Products

The Government of India is strengthening the GI ecosystem by improving market access, financial support, exports, tourism and legal protection for artisans, farmers and producer communities.

- PM Ekta Mall: Promotes GI-tagged products, handicrafts and ODOP products through dedicated retail spaces.
- One Station One Product (OSOP): Provides stalls at railway stations to help artisans and producer groups reach consumers directly.
- GI Trails: Links GI clusters with tourism, allowing visitors to experience traditional crafts and products at their source. The Muga Silk Trail in Assam, announced in 2026, is an example.
- Financial & IP Support: The MSME Innovative Scheme provides reimbursement of GI registration costs, while the Ministry of Textiles supports GI protection, marketing and enforcement.

- Export Promotion: APEDA supports GI-tagged agricultural products through quality improvement, infrastructure, capacity building and international market promotion.
- Trade Agreements: Free Trade Agreements and Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreements with different countries can further expand overseas markets for GI products by reducing trade barriers and strengthening recognition of Indian regional products.
- Promotion & Exhibitions: GI products are showcased through craft fairs, Dilli Haat, trade events, workshops and international exhibitions, increasing their visibility among domestic and global consumers.

Together, these initiatives help move GI products from local markets to wider domestic and international markets-creating greater visibility, better market opportunities and stronger livelihoods for producer communities.

Key Sectors and States with GI-Tagged Products

India's GI-tagged products span handicrafts, agriculture, manufacturing, food and natural products, reflecting the country's diverse regional heritage.

- Handicrafts: 445 products and 27 product logos were registered as of December 2025. These include Pashmina (Jammu & Kashmir), Baluchari Saree (West Bengal) and Banaras Gulabi Meenakari Craft (Uttar Pradesh).
- Agricultural Products: 251 products, covering cereals, fruits, vegetables, spices and non-basmati rice.
- Manufactured Products: 64 products, including Nashik Valley Wine and Kannauj Perfume.
- Food Products: 66 products, including Bardhaman Mihidana and Sitabhog (West Bengal), Kendrapara Rasabali (Odisha) and Tirupathi Laddu (Andhra Pradesh).
- Natural Products: Five products, including Makrana Marble (Rajasthan), Chunar Balua Patthar (Uttar Pradesh), Lac of Purulia (West Bengal), Panna Diamond (Madhya Pradesh) and Ambaji White Marble (Gujarat).

States Leading the GI Landscape: As of December 2025, Uttar Pradesh led with 81 GI-tagged products, followed by Tamil Nadu (76) and Maharashtra (55). These states demonstrate the strong connection between regional identity, traditional knowledge and economic value in India's GI ecosystem.

APEDA's Export Drive

The Agricultural and Processed Food Products Export Development Authority (APEDA) is helping take India's GI-tagged agricultural products to global markets. It supports farmers and exporters through quality improvement, capacity building, infrastructure and market promotion.

In 2026, APEDA facilitated new export opportunities for several GI products, helping regional specialties reach new consumers while improving market access and price realisation for producers.

Challenges and the Way Forward

The success of the GI system should be measured not only by the number of registrations, but by its real impact on the communities that create and sustain these products. A strong GI ecosystem must ensure that recognition translates into better incomes, wider markets, greater bargaining power and sustainable livelihoods for artisans, farmers and producers. At the same time, it should encourage younger generations to inherit and adapt traditional skills, ensuring that indigenous knowledge does not remain confined to the past. The ultimate goal is to make India's regional heritage economically viable, socially empowering and globally competitive, while preserving the cultural identity that makes these products unique.
